County eyes repairs to beach erosion

BY MARY G. SEILEY Engineer William Mitchell said Thursday that damages to the beach from a recent powerful storm indicate some costly drainage problems that the county will have to address.

The storm dropped some six inches of rain in four hours, causing major washouts at three locations on the recently renourished beach.

In one spot south of the Washington Street pier, erosion was blamed on a blocked box culvert -- a problem Mitchell said would be relatively easy to resolve. Two other erosion areas, he said, pose a bigger problem: inadequate box culverts that should be enlarged.

County Council had considered that option with one of the culverts that drains beachward last year, and decided the $60,000 to $70,000 price of an upgrade was too expensive.

Thursday, council members met informally to discuss refilling the washed out areas along the beach, and the cause of the severe erosion episode.

Mitchell said in the several areas where the county had

NASA head addresses Partners in Stennis

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Partners in Stennis is a phrase you will be reading and hearing about quite frequently in years to come.

It involves a group of business and community leaders from the counties of Hancock, Harrison, and Pearl River, along with St. Tammany Parish interested in the development of the numerous agencies located at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

A reception was held Wednesday night for Daniel S. Goldin, the new NASA administrator at the Great Southern Club in Gulfport.

Goldin, a visionary who is also a gifted speaker, appears to be the right person at the helm of NASA with the cuts coming to the Space Agency from Washington.

He said NASA needs to tighten its belt and change the way it does business, which he indicated wasn't the way it had been doing things previously.

Goldin praised community leaders who formed the Partners for Stennis, saying "Mississippians really know how to deal with change." NASA has to "let go of the Apollo program and change its ways, because people want more out of government for less money," Goldin said.

He appeared to have been very proud of the "team" at Stennis,

Even with the cuts, Goldin said he wanted to make sure Stennis is the center of the world in propulsion testing. NASA must look to the future in commercialization of space, Goldin said.

The reception was sponsored by the Mississippi Enterprise for Technology, South Central Bell of

Grant given for bikeway and pathway

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Commissioner Ronnie Shows announced Thursday that a $951,112 grant has been awarded to Hancock County, Waveland and Bay St. Louis by the Mississippi Department of Transportation.

The grant is for the construction of the Hancock County Sand Beach Pathway and Urban Bikeway System, which will link Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The grant will reimburse the cities and county for 80 percent of the costs of the $1,265,542 project.

The project includes a 2.75mile pedestrian pathway that will be constructed of five feet of concrete, south of the seawall and braced against the seawall. Plans call for the pathway to be braced with wood pilings in high erosion areas.

The walkway will run from the Washington Street Pier in Bay St. Louis to Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

Both Bay St. Louis and Waveland's proposed bikeway will link to the pedestrian walkway and link the two cities together.

The City of Bay St. Louis proposes to develop 7.9 miles of bikeways through the city. Generally, the bikeway will consist of one way paths from Cedar Point, down Dunbar to Old Spanish Trail. At St. Charles the bikeway runs to Avenue, the bikeway travels to the Waveland city line.

The bikepath continues north past St. Charles to Washington Street, along Third Street, past the Railroad Depot to Union Street, along Second Street, east on Main Street and then north to Beach Boulevard. The bikepath continues north on Cedar Point and Dunbar Avenue.

The City of Waveland's .85 mile proposed bikeway enjoins the pathway at the Bay St. Louis/Waveland city line and loops to Nicholson. At Nicholson, the pathway heads south to the Beach.

In early February, the Gulf Regional Planning Commission was given the go-ahead in successive meetings by the supervisors and cities to seek the federal funds, if available, for the projects.

The funding comes from a Transportation Enhancement Grant under the U.S. Intermodel Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 (ISTEA).

The county's matching amount is $175,380; Bay St. Louis $123,990; and Waveland $12,060.

The Supervisors agreed in February to help Waveland finance its 20 percent share, if needed.

This was when the city's share would have been $60,000.

The original plans called for Waveland to have a bikepath down Waveland Avenue from Beach Boulevard to Central, and Central to the Bay St. Louis line, with arteries running down Coleman and Nicholson to the beach.

take no official action on the plans, which were presented by engineer Dennis Stieffel as a "preliminary application review." Although the opinions were non-binding, commissioners indicated they would agree to a variance allowing lessthan-required front footages for some of the lots.

Officials said the proposal would have to be advertised for as an agenda item at the commission's next meeting, May 3, where the public will have a chance to comment.

The action Wednesday took place at a meeting that almost didn't happen -- a quorum of the seven-member board didn't materialize until after 8 p.m. The meeting was to have started at 7:30 p.m.

Court deals joker to casinos' plans

BY RICHARD MEEK

The proposed Pine Hills Development casinos rolled snake eyes Thursday when the Mississippi Supreme Court overturned a lower court ruling and the state Gaming Commission, which had approved the casinos' plans.

The court, in a unanimous decision, ruled the Pine Hills. Development, proposed to be located on the Bay of St. Louis, illegal. Proposed plans called for Pine Hills, which was a partnership between Lone Star and Gold Strike (recently taken over by Circus Circus), to dredge a 1,200-foot canal near the DuPont plant and float two casinos.

However, the court ruled "an approved site must be on water. The site here is not on water. "It is on land which the applicants propose to dredge." The court also ruled that casinos must be located only on the bays of St. Louis and Biloxi,

Florist & Garden Center

Hwy. 90 . Bay St. Louis . 467-9503

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It was good news for Hancock County and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland on Thursday.

The trio-governmental bodies received a grant totaling $951,112 for a pedestrian pathway and bikeway. The pedestrian pathway is to run from the Garfield Ladner Pier to the Washington Street pier.

The bikeway is to run some 7.9 miles in Bay St. Louis and .85 miles in Bay St. Louis.

It was just in February when Gulf Regional Planning Commission was given the go-ahead by the three governmental agencies to seek the grant.

I am sure the governments joining together made it easier to get the grant.

The matching grant came from the Department of Transportation and was announced by Ronnie Shows as Bay St. Louis received its grant of $694,560 to restore the old L&N Depot.

The counties and cities have a 20% match for the bikeway and pedestrian pathway. The federal monies are from the U.S. Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991.

The proposed project is said to improve the quality of life in Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland. The intermodal system will provide residents with efficient transportation options other than the private automobile.

The intermodel system is also a tremendous recreational option offering safe and scenic ways to tour the cities by foot or bike.

I already have my walking shoes out, now I guess I will have to pull my old bicycle out of 'mothballs.'

It just goes to prove that governmental agencies working together can accomplish many things.

I am still hearing a lot of plaudets for both the renovation and expansion of the City-County Library System and also Hancock Medical Center.

The plaudets are justifiable, as we have two very fine facilities all residents can be very proud of and should

It is always good to report on good things happening in our communities.

Wednesday I received a telephone call from a resident of Diamondhead questioning the wisdom of the overlay of Interstate 10 getting started so near the Easter weekend

The overlay project has caused some long traffic jams and even some of The Echo's staff has been held up. On Thursday, I spoke to Highway Commissioner Ronnie Shows and explained the problems caused by the project starting so near the Easter weekend.

Commissioner Shows said he would mention the importance of having the highway open for Saturday and Sunday.

On Friday afternoon, I also received a telephone call from Rick Turner with the Department of Transportation. He mentioned also that when the contract was let. the department had no control over when the contractor would begin the overlay.

He did mention though, that the Interstate will be open on Saturday and Sunday, Normally a contractor cannot begin an overlay project right before a national holiday, but Easter is not considered a national holiday weekend.

He did say the department was not going to let them

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS A Weekly Editorial From Mississippi Economic Council

Nation needs judicial reform Over the past few years, the Mississippi Legislature, with the support of the Mississippi

Economic Council, has made great strides in reforming the state's civil justice system. Meaningful reforms have been enacted, assuring buiness and other defendants greater fairness and equity in our courts. It allows Mississippi businesses to be more competitive with businesses in other states. Mississippi's statue of limitations has been reduced; penalities have been established for the filing of frivolous lawsuits; and standards have been strengthened for punitive damages and product liability.

Now it's time to enact similar reforms at the federal level. It would make American businesses more competitive around the world. The U.S. House of Representatives has already begun, passing the Common Sense Product

Liability and Legal Reform Act, the Attorney Accountability Act, and the Securities Litigation Reform Act. These important pieces of legislation, if passed through the Senate and signed by the President, will help to put an end to the explosion of frivolous lawsuits that are creating a society of "professional plaintiffs." Such legislation would also help deter attorneys from using our courts like gambling halls, bringing to court any lawsuit that promises even a remote chance of hitting the jackpot.

Mississippians who want to stop the onslaught of ludicrous lawsuits should contact Senators Lott and Cochran and encourage them to support judicial reforms

Make a Difference. Support Your United Way.

When President Clinton Mexico is indebted to us, so are thought it was a bad idea. When Speaker Newt Gingrich promised tax cuts last year, I thought it was a bad idea. And when Minority Leader Dick Gephardt promised tax cuts this year, I still thought it was a bad idea. It makes no difference who takes credit for tax cuts. The point of the matter is that even though Congress has voted to cut billions in government spending, we still haven't balanced the nation's pocketbook.

With all the cutting going on you would think our nation's $203 billion deficit would be wildly spiralling downward. It's not. The sad fact is that a lot of fiscally conservative members of both parties have been wobbling instead.

Each of the tax reduction proposals, such as the $500-per-child credit and breaks for senior citizens, are not bad things in themselves. If we were running a surplus, these are the sort of things we ought to be doing. But we dont have a surplus. Has Congress forgotten that we just squandered $20 billion on Mexico's economy? It is a disgrace that many economists say our country's economy is in as much trouble as Mexico's and we're turning a blind eye to the problem.

As a matter of fact, just like we indebted to Asian and European leading institutions.

In addition, interest payments on the debt now exceed $300 billion a year. This means we waste over $800 million each and every day on interest payments.

I don't think this is any position for the world's greatest nation to be in right now. We are setting ourselves up for economic blackmail. Although many of the provisions in the tax bill were well intentioned, without a serious commitment to balance the budget, we're asking for trouble.

Strongly opposed to enormous national debts, Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to James Madison wrote: "The question is, whether one generation has a right to bind another . . . the earth belongs to the living; that the dead have neither power nor rights over it . . . no man can oblige the persons who succeed him to the payment of the debts contracted by him.'

It is utterly irresponsible to make tax cuts when we should be dedicated to reducing the deficit and balancing the budget. We're running a $4.8 trillion debt.

We're spending $800 million a day in interest to pay off that debt. It's not going to disappear unless Congress stops pretending the problem doesn't exist. It

Poor Mr. Fung

Here comes Peter Cottontail, hopping down the Bunny Trail, hippity hoppety Easter's on its way. Okay, all you egg heads, time to be with family and friends today.

Hope y'all find peace and happiness as you celebrate this religious holiday.

Alright, for those of you dudes and dudettes who actually have a life and who haven't been able to keep up with the ongoing orange juice trial, you will be pleased to know that I have laid my hands on a copy of the actual transcript from this week's trial. Here it is:

Barry Scheck (defense attorney): Mr. Fung (criminalist), isn't it true Sir that you packaged all the evidence in this case inside empty Lays Potato Chips bags?

my Chapman had apologized to the public Wednesday that a quorum didn't materialize, and the three commissioners who were there were discussing when to reschedule their meeting. A few citizens left the meeting at that point. When a fourth member of the commission arrived, however, Chapman said the session could convene and conduct its business. City Council member Charles Scianna questioned that, saying some members of the public had left thinking there would be no meeting. "Damned if you do and damned if you don't," said an obviously frustrated Chapman. He convened the meeting anyway, saying he had not formally declared that there would not be a meeting.

The commission then dealt with two, non-controversial requests to subdivide properties, recommending both for approval. One would divide a tract running between Hancock Street and Beach Boulevard into two pieces. The tract, just south of Citizen Street, will be cut into two long, narrow parcels.

Another tract, at 750 Dunbar Avenue, was recommended for subdivison as well, leaving two lots exceeding the code's minimum size requirements. Plans for the major subdivision had been reviewed by city planning and public works officials before Wednesday's meeting. Stieffel said the tract's developer, Lifestyles 2000, plans to begin construction of homes on the property as soon as possible" after the subdivision approval. How many homes, however, depends on revision of the plans that Stieffel showed Wednesday.

His original proposal called for 36 homesites -- but the subdivision design called for some lots with 70- to 75-foot frontages. The zoning code calls for 100-foot frontages properties.

Stieffel's original plan also would require variant from the zoning code's minimum square footages: while the code requires 12,500-square-toot lots in R-1 zones, the plans shows some lots around 11,000 square

Stieffel urged the commis-sion to "bend" its rules and approve the proposal. He said modern homes no longer are built as "ranch style" sprawling buildings that necessitate 100-foot frontages.

Instead, he said, the develop-er's homes would be two-story structures similar to those on Sarah Lane in Waveland's new subdivision. The construction plan would leave 25 to 30 feet between the homes in Bay St. Louis, said Stieffel.

Stieffel said if the commission sticks to the 100-foot front requirement, economics most likely would kill the project. Still, commissioners clearly weren't comfortable with abandoning that requirement altogether. They indicated they'd back an 80-foot frontage minimum in the subdivision. and Stieffel indicated the developer would accept such a revision, losing a few sites in the process.

Team effort, hard work spelled success for PRCC Foundation

When Pearl River Community College completed its Endowment Challenge Grant campaign March 31 the Develop ment Foundation was $1,854. over its $125,000 goal.

Berlon Lee, a Columbia businessman, and charter member of the eight-year old PRCC Development Foundation, told the college's board of trustees the campaign was a team effort.

At 8 a.m. March 31, the final day to complete the drive, $123,000 had been donated. By noon that day the faculty and came up with the balance.

All PRCC board members donated to the Challenge Grant, and several board members actually staged a $100 throw-down at the January board meeting.

Of the $125,000 goal, 34 percent was donated by PRCC alumni. Nearly 50 percent of all PRCC faculty and staff members participated in the drive.

the task force director at Bay-Waveland District seeks land for school

BY RICHARD MEEK

The Bay-Waveland School District is betting negotiations with Casino Magic officials will pay off in a site for a new middle school.

Board officials confirmed they are in the early stages of negotiation with Magic officials for a 40-acre site of land that buffers Bay High School. Plans call for a middle school for grades 6-8 to be built at the site.

"We are discussing the possibility (with Casino officials)," board member Richard Flowers said. "I would like to think we will amibacly work it out."

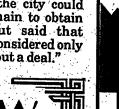

Flowers said the state requires at least/a 20-acre site for a school. But, he added, the additional land would allow room for expansion. He also said it would be easier to buy the land in one plot rather than having to negotiate a new deal at some later date.

"(The Bay-Waveland) area and our district is expanding," Flowers said. "Hopefully, this will meet our needs for several years to come."

At its meeting Monday, the board approved a real estate appraisal and survey on the Flowers said the city could use eminent domain to obtain the property but said that option would be considered only if "we can't work out a deal."

Tammany Yacht Club hosts third annual Plastic Classic wackiest boat race ever - Most stock boat designed with the demented old - Best interior (sail) - Best interior (power)

The Tammany Yacht Club Events Committee announces the third annual Plastic Classic Festival. Classic fiberglass boats and cars will be involved in this year's spectacular.

The festival is scheduled for May 5-7 at the Tammany Yacht Club located in Oak Harbor (Eden Isles) and will be open to any and all fiberglass boats designed in 1975 and earlier and built prior to 1980.

All classes of boats are invited to participate in the festival, PHRF, CAA, one design, cruising, powerboats, runab-outs, etc. The fiberglass cars will be on display Saturday in the parking lot in front of Tammany Yacht Club.

Boats participating will arrive at the TYC dock starting Friday, May 5 and will be open Friday evening and Saturday. Judging of these classics will be Saturday afternoon.

The cars will also be on display and will be judged on Saturday. There will be dinner available Friday night for the Friday arrivals for $8 per plate. An oldies party is scheduled for Saturday night with music from the 60s and 70s for the participants and guests. The party is included in the registration fee for participants and $5 per person for anyone else.

Sunday will dawn with the boat owner in mind. The course will be simple with no tiny, hard-to-find marks, and no windward leg. Race info:

Date: Sunday, May 7, start about 11 a.m.

Location: Lake Pontchartrain, North Shore, Spaceship Earth

Rules: The law of gravity and tonnage apply Protests: Any yacht attempting to protest shall be charged a substantial fee, immediately disqualified, and then banned from the post race orgy. Ratings: All vessels are not required to have any valid racing certificates from any group of old-fashioned, stick-in-themud, old jerks in blue blazers. We don't even care if the boat is registered, or stolen, or has any silly safety equipment, or any other damn thing. We're not nosey. If your vessel floats and sails, it's allowed to race.

The classic power boats ar encouraged to come out and cheer/jeer (?) their favorite sailboat.

Awards will be presented at about 2:30 p.m. in the TYC ${f Clubhouse}$.

Awards will be presented for: Oldest boat with the same

Waveland system re-build

In a joint announcement, Cablevision's regional general manager David Fyffe and Gary Evans, director of engineering, announced the company's rebuild of the Waveland system: will commence Monday, April

According to Fyffe, the re-build represents a substantial investment of $1 million. Once completed, the project will result in enhanced picture qualimprove the technical performance of the system.

With the addition of stand-by power generators, the cable system will be less susceptible to power-related interruptions. The automatic generator restores power at the facility immediately when there is an electrical power outage, thereby effectively reducing the number of interruptions in cable services.

The unit runs on propane gas and will generate electricity to the facility for at least 24 hours, allowing adequate time for the electric company to repair the outage. It can be likened to those found in hospitals, which ity for the customers as well as is an indication as to the importance Cablevision places on reducing the number of interruptions their customers exper-

On Monday, April 10, members of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 began calling parents to pick up children's pictures taken at the Easter party on Saturday, April 8. Many picked up their pictures. Those who could not be reached will be able to pick up their pictures on Tuesday, April 18 at Old City Hall, 300 South Second Street (at the Shoo-Fly were the pictures were taken) from 9:30 a.m.-noon and again from 1:30-3:30

The pictures are beautiful, and parents are urged to make arrangements to pick them up. The pictures are free of charge, compliments of the City of Bay St. Louis.

The Easter party was a tremendous success. Attendance was much larger than expected. Unit 139 wishes to thank the parents, children, businesses, individuals and the City of Bay St. Louis for their outstanding support of this event. Unit members are already discussing plans for a larger and more fun-filled Easter party next vear.

Twentieth Star DAR

The Twentieth Star Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution had as guest speaker Dot Burge of Carriere at the April meeting.

Mrs. Burge is an amateur birdwatcher. She shared with members her extensive knowledge of hummingbirds. She advised members not to take down hummingbird feeders in the winter in South Mississippi because several species of migrating hummers have been spotted here. It is believed that this is due to the deforestation of their regular winter homes.

To have hummingbirds visit your yard, Mrs. Burge said to put up any number of commercial feeders and fill them with a solution of 1 part sugar to 4 parts water that has been boiled or purified of

The feed should be changed weekly. It is important that the feeders be kept clean.

One of the best plants for attracting hummingbirds is salvia she Hostesses for the meeting were Eleanor Burge and Mildred Goyer of Hattiesburg.

Beauvoir Confederate Heritage Celebration

Beauvoir, the historic last home of Jefferson Davis, has scheduled several special activities in the latter part of April in celebration of Mississippi Confederate Heritage Month.

The activities include an archaeological excavation, pot luck picnic and memorialobservance.

The Beauvoir celebration is one aspect of a statewide celebration proclaimed by Governor Kirk Fordice to honor Mississippi's role in the War Between the States.

The month of April was selected because Confederate Memorial Day, a state holiday, is April 26 and because the war began and, for all practical pur-poses, ended in April.

The activities at Beauvoir will commence with an archaeological excavation on April 24-28. A cooperative effort between Beauvoir and the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, the excava-tion will be directed by State Historical Archaeologist Jack Elliott and will involve members of the Gulf Coast Archaeological Society.

The excavation is a part of an ongoing program at Beauvoir to document all facets of the 19th century estate. The public is invited to visit the "dig" site from 9 a.m.-noon and from 1-5 p.m. each day.

The celebration will continue on Saturday, April 29 with a pot-luck Southern picnic in the yard of the Beauvoir House. the picnic, Participants are asked to bring enough food for themselves and a guest. Soft drinks, plates and utensils will be provided.

The month's activities will culminate at 3 p.m. on Saturday, April 29 with a memorial service at the Confederate Cemetery and Tomb of the Unknown Confederate Soldier.

Sponsored by the Mississippi Division, United Sons of Confederate Veterans, who own and operate Beauvoir, the service will consist of period music, dramatic readings and decoration of graves and the tomb.

Flag and military honors will be conducted by members of the Jefferson Davis Legion, an organization of living historians from throughout the

The service will honor the more than 75,000 Mississippians who defended the state in the War for Southern Indepen-dence and will especially memorialize the 28,000 of these soldiers, sailors and marines who died in the conflict.

The public is invited and encouraged to participate in all Mississippi Confederate Heritage Month activities at Regular admission will be charged for the archaeological dig, as well as for a tour of the buildings on April 29.

The memorial service and picnic on April 29 are free, but reservations are required for

Helpful tips enhancehome

If you are considering redecorating one or all of the rooms in your house, it's helpful to make some mental notes before making any purchases or hiring contractors.

Remember that every room has a focal point. In the living room, it may be the fireplace. In another, visitors might be drawn to the window. Always identify the strong visual elements in a room and be sure to complement them-with mirrors or matching or contrasting colors, for example-rather than crowd them or detract from their effects.

Often minor, inexpensive decorations can revitalize a room you thought needed a major overhaul. Here are some inexpensive, yet versatile decorating elements to consider:

Lighting

Not all light bulbs need to be soft white, which, contrary to their name are rather harsh. Yellow or golden light is not as blinding and uses less wattage. Golden light even makes a nice substitute for candlelight since it provides a similar warm glow. Rooms that are meant for relaxation rather than work should not have overhead or fluorescent lighting. Both tire the eyes. Track lights are a nice addition to any room, especially the living room, where the lights can be pointed in different directions to illuminate artwork, photographs, or a bouquet of fresh flowers.

Borders and trompe l'oeil

Decorative borders that run along the top of the walls can be pasted on in a short time. They come in a variety of motifs such as Ionic columns, floral patterns and trompe l'oeil, and are in inexpensive way to add character to a room.

Fabrics, glass, and mirrors

If all new furniture is out of the question financially, recovering or simply covering tables and armchairs with a fabric that matches / carpeting and drapes might to the trick.

Wooden tables become elegant when covered with a fitted piece of glass. Glass shelves are a light, airy, unobtrusive addition. And, why not get more use out of your crystal bowls by filling each with potpourri and leaving them permanently throughout the house?

If one room or your entire apartment is just too small or too dark, mirrored tiles can be a solution. They come in a variety of sizes and colors and can cover as much or as little wall space as desired. Or, to make a room seem double its actual size. place a standing mirror in a corner from floor to ceiling.

A sense of style It is often said that the most fashionably dressed women with the most developed sense of style are never the wealthiest.

Because they cannot permit themselves to buy every trendy article of clothing that catches their eye, they shop painstakingly for the perfect sweater or shoe that will see them through several season.

The same principle applies to home decorating: It's the artistic eye of the resident, not the wallet, that makes for a beautiful home.
